ABOUT US

Mukondeni Pottery Village is a cooperative located in Mukondeni village, on the outskirts of Elim in Limpopo province. It was founded in 1974 by three unemployed women who sought to combat poverty and support their families by crafting and trading pottery for food and clothing.

Over time, two of the founding women passed away, including Sarah Munyai, who recognized the importance of passing on her skills. She invited 25 additional women to join her in the pottery business, contributing to the growth of the cooperative and enabling the women to sustain their families.

The sale of clay pots provided income that supported many families, allowing children to attend university. Sarah Munyai led the cooperative until her passing in 2017. Following her legacy, five young people joined the group, continuing the tradition of pottery making, which remains active to this day.
